Gov. Lausche Trying To Stem Phone Crisis

Ohio Consolidated Closes Portsmouth Office Second Time

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche said today he is making every effort to restore telephone service to Portsmouth, now hard hit by its second communications blackout in a month.

The governor early today summoned some of his chief aides to a conference at the governor's mansion. He decided to send an investigating team to Portsmouth for a detailed report.

The Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. closed its Portsmouth exchange at 4:30 p. m. Friday and set up emergency headquarters here. Today is the 91st day of a strike of the Communications Workers of America against Consolidated, which serves customers in a 23-county southern Ohio area. The company broke off negotiations with the union.

Company officials announced that they would not attend an Ohio Industrial Commission hearing Wednesday which was called to allow each side to air its grievances.

The company said it set up temporary headquarters in Columbus to serve "the 23 of our 24 counties where telephone service is available."

In an earlier statement, Company President C. E. Williams said he believes only "personal intervention by the governor" will bring an end to the 91-day strike.

WILLIAMS announced Friday evening that service to Portsmouth and Sciotoville was being discontinued.

Later, an official said the blackout also affected the rest of Scioto County and estimated that 17,000 of the company's 58,000 subscribers are without service.

Court-Martial Finds Marine To Be Guilty

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (AP)—Cpl. Richard J. Bille, convicted by a special court-martial of slugging a recruit, insisted at this Marine training depot today that "I didn't do it."

Bille, 21-year-old former bakery worker from Erie, Pa., was sentenced Friday to two months imprisonment at hard labor and forfeiture of $65 of his pay for two months. He also will be reduced to private.

The special five-member court found him innocent of a charge of maltreatment of one under his authority.

The charges were brought by Pvt. Donald Hamifar of Norwalk, Ohio. Hamifar said Bille punched him in the stomach because he did not say "sir" to the corporal. Hamifar entered the U. S. Naval Hospital at nearby Beaufort five days after the run-in with Bille. Medical officers operated on him for a hernia condition, saying Hamifar was born with it. They could not say, however, whether the condition was aggravated by a blow in the stomach.

Hamifar had testified that while his platoon was drawing equipment, Bille, a supply corporal, held up a haversack and asked whether the recruit had it. Hamifar said he replied he did not have one.

Then, Hamifar testified, Bille punched him in the stomach. Three fellow recruits backed up his testimony.

'Theft Of A Kiss' Accusation Dropped

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A minister's son, 22, accused of "stealing" a kiss from a Tulsa mother, 17, when he entered her bedroom June 28, has pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of breaking and entering. Larkin Marney entered the plea at his jury trial Friday.

He admitted entering the bedroom of Mrs. Delores Ann Earlywine after driving her home shortly before, but testified he was just checking "to see if everything was all right." The reduced charge is a misdemeanor while the original count of first degree burglary (theft of a kiss) is a felony.

Adlai Winds Up Western Tour

Talk Monday To Detail H-Bomb Test Proposal

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson wound up a Western stumping trip Friday night by declaring President Eisenhower is "either unwilling or unable" to lead the Republican Party.

The Democratic presidential nominee said that national policy "has become stalled on dead center" while the times call for an "effective leader."

"A paralysis of will have overtaken our national leadership," Stevenson told a Democratic rally. After his speech, Stevenson flew to his Illinois home, hoping for victory with a new issue: his proposal to ban H-bomb tests.

He said he will devote a nationwide TV broadcast to it from Chicago Monday at 9:30 p. m. EST.

It was Stevenson's big gun as he wound up a five-day aerial tour through California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana. Their total of 55 electoral votes went to Eisenhower in 1952.

Stevenson said Eisenhower misrepresented his proposal to ban hydrogen bomb tests. He said:

"THE PRESIDENT has indicated that I proposed that we halt tests of atomic weapons. I didn't propose any such things. I proposed that we halt tests of hydrogen weapons."

"They are not the same thing at all. Perhaps someone ought to explain to him the difference. He has indicated that I favor discontinuance of research in atomic weapons. I didn't propose that."

"Most Americans I know are concerned and deeply concerned about mankind's need to tame the hydrogen bomb. Yet only yesterday the President said he uttered his last word on this subject."

"I say there can be no last word on this subject until mankind is freed of the menace of incineration. And I shall have something more to say about obligations of leadership to the human race as well as the nation next Monday night."

3 Troopers Descend On One Parachute

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP)—Two paratroopers could thank a master sergeant for saving them from possible death or serious injury when he grabbed them during a jump recently and the three descended on one parachute.

The incident occurred during a mass jump at Ft. Benning, Ga. The hero of the story is M. Sgt. Louis Berthiaume of New Orleans, a veteran of 15 years service, who held on to Pfc. Frank L. Ruminer of Pittsburgh and Sp3c William J. Meek of Chillicothe, Ohio, after their parachutes became entangled.

Berthiaume, whose chute was fully opened, said he saw Ruminer's boots coming "at me from the right" 800 feet over the drop zone. Ruminer's chute became entangled in Berthiaume's suspension line and as he slid by, Berthiaume grabbed him. Ruminer said he had been swinging wide from another trooper to avoid tangling with his chute.

Meek's parachute then fell atop Berthiaume's, becoming entangled in the upper part. Berthiaume grabbed him and the three rode down together. They did not pull their emergency chutes for fear of worsening the situation.

Meek received two sprained ankles, the only injuries received among the three.

Police Character Right About Cops

DALLAS (AP)—A masked police character, 21, appeared on a local TV show, "Confession," last Sunday and said he couldn't go straight because "police pick me up every time they see me."

He was right. Police arrested him Friday after they found a piece of metal in his car that officers said matched a safe in a local lumber company that had been cut open.

Another man in the Stevenson camp, H. W. Brawley, put it even stronger. Brawley, executive assistant to Stevenson's campaign manager, Jim Finnegan, answered the same question this way:

"We're very confident about Ohio. Our reports tell us that there is a definite switch all over

2 LIFE RAFTS REPORTED IN HUNT FOR BIG PLANE

Ike Defends Big Business Aides

President Says 'Little Fellow' Just As Important As Millionaire

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower warmly defended Friday night his use of men from "big business" in key administration jobs. But he also told a member of a garment workers union "you are just as important to me as any millionaire that ever walked the earth."

In a nationwide radio-TV session, Eisenhower replied to questions from what the White House called "a cross section of Americans" invited to Washington from all sections of the country by the National Citizens for Eisenhower Committee. He met with them in a Washington hotel.

The broadcast portion had ended when he got an inquiry dealing with the men from "big business" to whom he has given top government jobs.

Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, has been accusing Eisenhower of turning over his administration to big business and forgetting about "the little fellow."

Against that background, Isadore Siegal of New York identified himself as a member of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union for 25 years and "an independent voter." Then he told Eisenhower:

"YOU HAVE a lot of people that are big shots in the cabinet. I want to ask you, Mr. President, do you think of all the working people alike—like in the big business?"

Persons sitting in the room with Eisenhower could see his jaw set, his face flush just a bit. Then he noted that he had remarked earlier that he grew up in a family that had to struggle to make ends meet. And he went on to tell Siegal:

"You or anybody else is just as important to me as any millionaire that ever walked the earth."

"Now I have three or four very successful businessmen in my cabinet. My friend, the Defense Department is spending something like $40 billion a year of our money."

"Who would you rather have in charge of that—some failure who never did anything, or a successful businessman?"

Referring then to Secretary of Defense Wilson, former President of General Motors Corp., Eisenhower went on in crackling tones: "I got the head of the biggest company I could go to, General Motors, and said, 'will you come in and do this for us?' I think he has been doing a good job."

In contrast, then, he mentioned Secretary of Agriculture Benson and pictured him as a man "I suppose, who hasn't a cent. I know he is a poor man." The President added:

"THAT IS the kind of people we have, all kinds of people, in that Cabinet, and I assure you that they are doing one thing—they are working day and night for your benefit, yours and mine."

One of the first questions came from former Democratic Mayor Marshall J. Beverly of Alexandria, Va. He asked the President to "tell the nation who is in charge" of running the Eisenhower administration.

That recalled Stevenson's contention that Eisenhower has consistently rejected "the positive responsibilities of leadership."

The President replied: "I will tell you this, if I am not running the executive part of this government, then I am the man that is mostly fooled in this nation."

Collegians Just Insist On Marriage

CHICAGO (AP)—When it comes to trying to advise college students who want to get married, Miss Margaret Habein is just about ready to stop talking.

Miss Habein is dean of instruction and student services at the University of Rochester, N. Y. She is here for the annual meeting of the American Council on Education.

"There's no use trying to stop them from getting married," she said. "We know that. But we have tried to counsel with them and get them to make sure it's what they want to do, to consider the possible consequences to their education and so on."

"But by now I've just about decided that I might as well stop talking. Once they've made up their mind, that's all there is to it."

Actually, Miss Habein said, marriage need not interfere too much with a couple's college work. Sometimes the young wives find it better to take a lighter class load with what the added chore of running a home. Even so, Miss Habein acknowledged, "they sometimes look tired."

If the young couple decides to start a family while still in college, and Miss Habein said they seem to be increasingly so inclined, the wife is the one most likely to suffer, educationally speaking.

"Unless she is very highly motivated to finish her education," Miss Habein said, "a girl is not likely to come back to college after she has had her baby and is through with the first few months of caring for it."

A NEW KIND of salute is becoming popular all over the nation. It's the raised arm of the person who has just given blood so that others may live. The next visit of the Red Cross bloodmobile here will be on October 22, the first Monday after the Pumpkin Show. And the local quota is being raised to 165 pints. Those able to donate on October 22 should phone 336 for appointment.

U.N. Council Slated To Vote On Suez Canal Compromise

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. Security Council was called on today to approve six principles on which Britain, France and Egypt have agreed to base settlement of their Suez Canal dispute.

The council was expected to give unanimous endorsement to a resolution being drafted by Britain and France, but there were signs a long debate might precede the vote.

Agreement on the six principles was reported to the council in a two-hour secret session Friday.

The principles called for freedom of navigation, respect for Egyptian sovereignty, insulation of the canal from national politics, fixing of tolls by agreement between Egypt and the users, use of a fair part of the dues for canal any disputes between Egypt and the expropriated Suez Canal Co.

President Eisenhower has hailed the development as "most gratifying." He declared it looked as though "a very great crisis is behind us."

SECRETARY of State Dulles was reported highly pleased over the latest step and said there seemed to be solid ground for a favorable outcome.

The agreement resulted from six private huddles among British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi and U.N. secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld.

The talks started at Hammarskjöld's invitation Tuesday night while the council was deadlocked over a British-French resolution declaring that Egypt's July 26 nationalization of the 103-mile canal endangered freedom of passage.

The agreement was concluded in the Secretary General's office only a few hours before the council met Friday.

Mother Refuses To Send Daughter To Public School

CENTERTOWN, Mo. (AP)—"I will go to jail rather than send my child to school," says Mrs. Mary L. Schoenheit.

Mrs. Schoenheit, 46, who once taught school in Illinois, wants to instruct her daughter, 7, also named Mary, herself. The girl hasn't been going to school.

"I want my child to be an individual," she explains. "We have tyranny in our schools, the tyranny of being like everyone else. Our schools are mud roads to education. We need freeways."

Under Missouri law keeping a child out of school is a misdemeanor punishable by a jail sentence of 2 to 10 days, a fine of 10 to 25 dollars, or both.

Mrs. Schoenheit contends she is complying with the law by providing her daughter instruction equal to what she would get in a public school.

The state doesn't agree. Raymond McDaniels, acting Moniteau County school superintendent, said he will summon Mrs. Schoenheit before a magistrate Monday.

Mrs. FDR Planning Talk In Columbus

COLUMBUS (AP)—Adlai Stevenson's presidential hopes receive a helping hand from Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in Columbus today.

Mrs. Roosevelt is scheduled to speak at an 8:30 p. m. rally at the Veterans Memorial. The talk is sponsored by the Ohio Volunteers for Stevenson.

Her appearance on the Columbus scene coincides with "Bill O'Neill Day" in Columbus.

O'Neill, Republican candidate for governor, planned a series of appearances throughout the metropolitan area, even as his rival, Democratic aspirant Michael V. DiSalle, welcomes Mrs. Roosevelt to town.

Spotters See No Movement Aboard Either

Air Force Chiefs Say 5 Surface Ships Head Toward Sighting Area

LONDON (AP)—Search planes today spotted two life rafts off Spain where a giant American military airliner is believed to have crashed three days ago, but radioed they saw no sign of life on either raft.

An Air Force announcement said five ships were approaching the scene and were expected to arrive this afternoon.

The first raft sighted from the air appeared partly inflated, a spokesman said, but the second raft "appeared to be deflated, with no one apparently aboard."

One hundred airplanes from three continents scoured the North Atlantic in one of the greatest searches in aviation history. The rafts were found after the planes were ordered to the area off Spain to investigate weak SOS signals heard this morning.

The SOS signals were similar to those that would have been sounded by a hand-cranked radio in a rubber life raft.

THE TRANSPORT, a military version of the four-engine DC6 civilian airliner, vanished late Wednesday after sending out a routine radio message giving its position on a flight to the United States via the Azores Islands.

Aboard were nine U. S. Navy crewmen and 50 Air Force men from the Air Force base at Lincoln, Neb., who had been on duty in Britain.

The C118 Liftmaster carried four packaged rubber rafts, which could be inflated by carbon dioxide bottles.

There was silence from the time of the plane's position report Wednesday night until 2:15 a. m. Friday, when a Pan American passenger plane picked up a distress signal believed to have come from a survival raft's radio north of the Azores.

Then early today, German and British ships picked up more SOS signals off the northwest tip of Spain. The main effort of the gigantic search was then diverted.

Six-engine Strato Jet bombers and other U. S. and British planes from Europe, North Africa and America, plus aircraft carriers of a U. S. task force, participated in the search for the missing men.

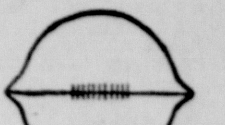

Jail Cell Sleeper Gets Quick Death

It wasn't that Sheriff Sid Reeder didn't like the snake—it was the two men he was about to put in the cell who objected.

Gov. Lausche Trying To Stem Phone Crisis

Sid Griffith to the industrial commission and Gov. Lausche, said Wednesday's hearing would "infringe upon collective bargaining rights secured by federal law."

In announcing the hearing, the commission said it was following an old but little used law which permits it to step into labor wrangles.

But Griffith maintained the commission has "no jurisdiction in the matter to require either party" to attend the hearing.

Williams expressed "regret" that service was halted, but said the company had "no other recourse in this reign of terror."

He apparently referred to a demonstration here Thursday night in which the company said 500 persons participated and six company trucks were burned.

Local police have stated that "the company always exaggerates" concerning the strike situation.

Williams said the company will not continue negotiations until the CWA provides an entirely new bargaining team.

"We will not be blueprinted by the union bargaining committee," he declared.

THE UNION has steadfastly denied knowledge of acts of vandalism during the strike. It has argued that it is striking to keep benefits gained through the years.

The first telephone blackout here started Sept. 18 after a fight between strikers and company supervisors. It ended three days later with representatives of Gov. Lausche inducing the company and area law enforcement officials to sign an agreement pledging adequate protection for company officials and property.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. reported Friday night that one of its cables in Portsmouth was sliced, cutting off news service to the Portsmouth Times.

And Portsmouth's two radio stations went off the air temporarily Friday night, Ohio Consolidated said. One station was off the air for three hours when a cable reportedly was cut. The other was able to operate locally, but lost its network connection.

The local Western Union office also experienced some difficulty when one of its regular lines was disconnected, apparently when the telephone exchange was closed, Ohio Consolidated said.

U.S. Highway Boss Faces 'Challenge'

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Bertram D. Tallamy says his new job as head of an all-out, nationwide highway construction program will be "a terrific challenge."

President Eisenhower appointed Tallamy Friday to direct the federal operation that has a budget of $33 billion, most of it for a 41,000-mile network of interstate highways.

The new road boss is 54, silver-haired, husky, married and the father of one son, also an engineer.

Tallamy is a 1925 graduate of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, a Republican, onetime New York public works chief and, since 1950, the guiding force behind the New York State Thruway.

Two St. Louis Churches Win Battle Against Slums—After Six Decades!

By GROVER BRINKMAN
Central Press Association
Correspondent

ST. LOUIS—This fight lasted so long that the referee ran out of time. It started back in 1890, and it still is being waged—but now victory is in sight.

In the same corner are two historic churches, St. Louis' Centenary Methodist, and the Basilica of St. John, its Catholic neighbor across the street. Their opponent: old Vicious Vice, hatched in a slum area that completely surrounded the two churches.

At times, the going got pretty rough. However, now the city of St. Louis has stepped in to help. The slums have been razed, and the two historic church buildings stand alone in a large area known as the Plaza.

Until recently this district was one of the eyesores of St. Louis, stretching east from Union station to the downtown skyscrapers. It was Skid Row, Pawshop Lane, Flophouse Alley, Ten Nights in a Bar-room and Glitter Gulch, all wrapped in one dirty package.

A HUGE apartment project will soon change the skyline in this slum area. Apartment projects mean people moving in, and people make church members. The housing project in the Plaza will accommodate 1,150 families. So each church is spending more than $100,000 to acquire more ground, and make necessary improvements to keep pace with progress.

This battle against the slums eating at both their back and front doors started 65 years ago. Father James T. Coffey, who was pastor of St. John's, and Rev. Dr. John Matthews of Centenary Methodist, decided they would form an alliance to fight crime and vice for the church.

"Wine rooms and dance halls were low and degrading," Father Coffey recalled years later. "Children of all ages were admitted and served liquor on the floor. Hoodlums armed with guns roamed through the streets, stole the ballot boxes, and kept decent citizens from voting."

The priest hounded these law-breakers, day and night. It was not uncommon to see him in the toughest dives, totally unafraid. Across the street, Dr. Matthews had his own tough battle to clamp a lid on the vice-pots confronting him at every turn. It is said he once started his congregation by closing his sermon with a prayer in which he said:

These two St. Louis churches finally won their campaign to eliminate the vicious slums at their doorsteps.

"O Lord, if that man who stole a gentleman's overcoat this morning while he was at the communion table is here tonight, please discover him, and search him out, O Lord!"

ANOTHER INSTANCE is related in Dr. Matthews' autobiography, in which he tells how his congregation "prayed down" a cheap burlesque theater that was being built next door to the church.

It seems no one had jurisdiction to keep this theater from opening. It was just a dive, but the law would not close it. So the congregation started a siege of prayer. It kept up, month after month, until, as Dr. Matthews states, "the theater closed for want of patronage." The building was torn down.

These two venerable men of God, and their successors, kept up the battle against crime and corruption continually, year after year, often without help of any kind. Finally, their spirit of reform won out. The entire district, some 16 blocks or more, was ordered razed. The bulldozers and wrecking cranes moved in, and crime moved out.

Every building in the area was leveled—except the two venerable churches, which sit at the edge of the cleared area. Now each looks forward to the future.

ST. JOHN'S, founded in 1848 in a little frame building, at that time was at the edge of a wood, reached only by a cow-path. Soon it was replaced by a building of brick.

The present basilica, of Lombard-Romanesque design, dedicated in 1860, is affiliated with the Archbasilica of St. John Lateran in Rome, and grants many of the privileges afforded by that famous shrine, known as the Pope's cathedral. Once it had all the uses of a cathedral, and many art masterpieces grace its venerable walls.

St. John's neighbor is the oldest Methodist church in St. Louis, built in 1839. When its cornerstone was laid, several members protested the fact that the building was "too far out in the country." It was built entirely of prairie limestone quarried nearby. Today more than 1,000 people gather for its services, people from all faiths and classes.

This alliance of a Protestant and a Catholic church, to battle crime and vice for more than half a century, surely is an example of true Christianity at work.

officials who tried to prevent her departure from America. British authorities allowed them to land in London and board the Molotov for Russia, since their passports were in order.

But at the last minute immigration officers served a court summons for Chwastov to produce Tanya. The summons made the tot a ward of the British court.

Chwastov was free to continue his journey to Russia if he liked. But Tanya was ordered to remain within British jurisdiction until the case is heard.

Chwastov took the child back down the gangplank without argument. Clutching a rag doll, she seemed the least concerned of all about the stir over her future.

Chwastov and Tanya were whisked off to the Russian embassy, to await the court's action.

Mrs. Dieczok said in Detroit: "I feel a little better. I feel happy, but not too happy. When I get my baby in my arms, then I'll really feel happy."

Chwastov's mother still lives in Russia. Some American observers have advanced the opinion that he was "forced" to make the trip to the Soviet.

Car Is Speared By Guard Rail; 2 Men Injured

Two Columbus men, Richard Peters, 41, and William Trotter, 34, were taken to Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus, last night for treatment of injuries suffered in an automobile accident on Route 104 approximately 10 miles northwest of Circleville.

Trotter, more seriously injured, suffered a compound fracture of the right leg, plus contusions and abrasions. He was a passenger in the wrecked auto.

Peters, the driver, is being treated for a possible fractured pelvis and lacerations.

The car went off the highway and smashed into a guard rail, uprooting eight posts and 65 feet of railing. The driver said he lost control of the machine after being blinded by the headlights of an approaching auto.

DEPUTY Sheriff Bob Hoover said the guard rail cut into the car like a knife, almost slashing the vehicle in half. After the impact, the auto continued moving over 100 feet with the rail protruding from both ends of the car. The automobile was demolished. Deputy Dwight Radcliff assisted Hoover in the investigation.

Circleville Man Penalized As 'Drunk' Driver

Raymond L. Singleton, 26, Seneca, William L. Hanson, 34, Columbus, John S. Burford, Bellevue, and Melvin L. Shipp, 25, Columbus, were each fined $5 and costs for passing red lights. They were cited by city police.

Other violators arrested by the state patrol are as follows:

CHARLES Sims Jr., Circleville, Wesley J. Combs, 22, Circleville, and Jesse McGath, 24, Memphis, Tenn.; all fined $25 and costs for reckless operation.

Everett E. Sullivan, 25, Arbuckle, W. Va. and Ronald E. Kelly, 21, Pedro; both fined $10 and costs for speeding at 70.

Abraham Oates, 23, Columbus; $10 and costs for driving on the wrong side of a divided highway.

Fred R. Shedd, 57, Chillicothe, arrested by the sheriff's department, was fined $10 and costs for driving left of center.

SAN FRANCISCO—It's official title is Apostleship of the Sea. Usage has more or less changed it to "The Club on the Hill."

The hill, of course, is Rincon hill. All of which gives to this particular clubhouse the unmistakable flavor of San Francisco. Rincon hill, an early and popular landmark, has changed tremendously through the years.

Once the site of many of the city's most aristocratic homes, it is today an area of industrial properties, union buildings, and the site of the local branch of the Apostleship of the Sea. Yet change or not, the hill remains the best vantage point from which to command a comprehensive and closeup view of San Francisco's teeming waterfront.

The local Apostleship, as such organizations go, is comparatively young. Yet it possesses a robustness not usually associated with an institution boasting a history of a trifle over two decades. Even in its infancy, during the waterfront strife of the 1930s, this organization served a total of better than 200,000 meals to needy seamen and waterfront workers, and accomplished this in a depression year.

UNDOUBTEDLY a great share of the credit due for the Apostleship's constant growth and popularity must go to its present director—Msgr. Matthew F. Connolly, himself a comparatively young man.

Well over six feet, constantly in trim, "Father Matt," as he is affectionately called, is a tireless man of tremendous energy. Occasionally he takes a few hours off from his never-ending tasks to shoot a round or two of golf, which he does in the low 70s, as a means of keeping in shape.

The Apostleship, standing near the approach to the San Francisco-Oakland Bay bridge, is really a completely equipped clubroom and recreational hall for seamen. It has a TV room, game rooms, library, periodicals, showers, a bunkroom for those who may be stranded, a large dance floor, a small but beautiful chapel for any wishful solitude or the urge to meditation.

FROM the culinary standpoint, it is equipped to serve (and sometimes does) up to 500 diners. During summer months there is a series of picnics.

The costs of operating such an agency are sometimes staggering. The Apostleship, seeking a solution for this ever-vexing problem, has found a consistent source of revenue in its monthly luncheons, held the fourth Thursday of each month.

The luncheons are attended by ladies of management and labor, as well as by civic dignitaries and various business executives, and there has been as high as 500 guests at one of these affairs. These "get-togethers" have been instrumental in bettering conditions as a whole along the waterfront. They have been the means of creating better relationship among all factions concerned with the waterfront and its activities and problems.

THE IDEA of the Apostleship of the Sea was sparked originally by an article which appeared in an English newspaper, the London Universe, in 1920, entitled: A Plea for Catholic Seamen, which really amounted to an indictment of the church for its neglect of the spiritual welfare of the seaman.

Purpose Of Life Is Sermon Theme For Presbyterian

"What Do You Want Out Of Life?" will be the theme for the morning hour of worship at the Presbyterian Church Sunday at 10:30.

The inspiration for the sermon is the Scriptural account of the tribute to John the Baptist when our Lord turned to the multitudes and asked concerning John, "What went ye out into the wilderness to see?" (Matthew 11:7).

During the worship, the Sacrament of Baptism will be observed, with the Rev. Donald Mitchell officiating.

James B. Carr will sing the baritone solo part in the anthem, "The Earth Is The Lord's". Mrs. Clark Will directing, "O Worship The King," "He Leadeth Me," and "I Am Trusting Thee" are among the hymns which will be sung during the worship.

Dear God . . . there's so much I'd like to say to You. It's that way lots of times. I want to talk to You, and then somehow I get stuck for words.

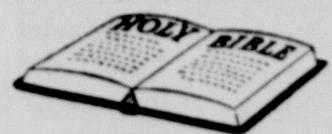

I guess I do some stupid things, sometimes . . . like that fight with Butch Hendley yesterday. He said something I didn't like and then I said something, and that was it. I guess I won, but afterwards I was kind of ashamed. I told Dad about it last night and he went for a walk with me and we looked up at the sky and the stars. Everything looked so big, all of a sudden, that it scared me. It seemed too big to understand.

Then Dad told me that there are lots of things like the sky and the stars, too big for people to ever understand. And he said that that's where Faith comes in, and that it is good to have the Church to put our trust in.

I got to thinking about that, and I told Dad that I'd kind of like to ask Butch to come to Church with us next Sunday morning, but that I was afraid he wouldn't come. Dad grinned at me and said, "Why not ask him and see?"

Dear God . . . I did ask Butch, and he's coming. Butch hasn't been to Church regularly like I have, so maybe when it comes to praying he'll get stuck for words even worse than I do. But You'll listen to him anyway, won't You? Because he needs You very much . . . just like I do . . . just like all of us do.

Thank You, God.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

LINGUISTIC PROGRESS

CERTAIN educators have long been critical of the lack of linguistic opportunities open to pupils of the public school system. They point out the apparent paradox of a nation of people whose ancestral derivations consist of every nation on earth and who, for the most part, can speak only one language.

These educators claim this is the one weak spot in an otherwise superior educational process in contrast to the large number of foreign-educated youths who are able to speak several languages fluently.

Those who have been out of touch with school subjects for some years may be surprised to learn the extent to which this picture is changing. The U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare has released figures showing there are now 270,000 elementary school pupils learning a second language as compared with 2,000 in 1940.

Prepared by Kenneth W. Mildenerberger, research associate of the Modern Language Association of America, the report states that "when properly taught, the spoken language is readily absorbed by the grade-school child." Further, he reports, "this experience supports the belief of eminent neurologists that the most favorable time to begin understanding and speaking a second language is in the pre-adolescent period."

Demonstrating the national emphasis being given to more language instruction is the adoption of the idea in 1,977 schools in 357 cities and towns of 44 states. Perhaps, in a roundabout fashion, the new emphasis on foreign languages will raise the standard of English grammar among future generations, for the basic foundation of any language is applicable to most others.

MORE THAN A FRINGE

A NATIONAL Chamber of Commerce survey indicated that so-called fringe benefits are getting large enough that they are hardly "just a fringe" any more.

A survey of 1,000 companies showed that fringe benefits costs averaged $819 per employee in 1955. That was an increase of $99 over figures in a 1953 survey.

These costs included payments by employers for pensions, vacations, social security, etc. The 1955 survey indicated an average of $254 for agreed-upon programs of pensions and insurance; $254 for vacations and holidays; $145 for legally required programs such as old age and survivors insurance (social security), unemployment and workmen's compensation; $89 for rest periods; and $77 for miscellaneous.

The survey estimated that the grand total in fringe payments for all employers amounted to $36 billion. The outlay by American employers for such programs in 1929 was approximately $1.5 billion.

Employers use such figures as a basis for their contention that weekly wages and hourly rates are no longer accurate measures of either worker income or the labor costs of doing business.

That labor considers them important, too, is shown by the way many union bargaining drives have concentrated on these provisions quite as much as on hourly wage increases. The "fringe" is becoming as important as the main piece of material.

OPTIMISTIC AUTO MAKERS

AUTO MEN IN Detroit, where factories are now beginning to turn out 1957 models in volume, are more optimistic than they were a few months ago, when dealers were overstocked with cars and production was being curtailed. They are nearly unanimous in predicting that 1957 will see a substantial gain in output compared to this year.

Prices will be higher, reflecting higher labor costs, but officials of the Big Three are not convinced that these latest price increases will hurt sales. The new models, according to advance news, will have major design changes that the industry is convinced will appeal to car buyers. And, adding to optimism in automobile circles is the reduction in inventories of 1956 cars in dealers hands.

Three or four months ago inventories of new cars reached an all-time high figure of 900,000. This has been reduced more than 50 per cent.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The 1956 Campaign is going hog wild. The Democrats are bothered by a political trick that Eisenhower used in 1952. Unexpectedly and in response to the obvious concern of millions of Americans at the futile conduct of the Korean War—a war that was being fought to be lost—he announced that even before he was inaugurated as President, he would go to Korea. It was a beau geste and really without earth-shaking significance because until Eisenhower actually became President, it could not matter whether he went to Korea or not.

However, Eisenhower was elected and the Democrats have, for some unstatistical reason, come to believe that this one statement was what elected him. They have been waiting for another such tour de force, as such things are called. Adlai Stevenson has hurled three boomerangs at Eisenhower, two of them undoubtedly on the assumption that if Stevenson did not say them first, Eisenhower would. The two were:

1. Drop the draft;
2. Stop testing bombs.

The third was a one-hundred per cent error, namely, that Dr. Milton Eisenhower's South American report strengthened Peron, when his research staff should have told Stevenson that whatever aid Peron got from the United States, about $100,000,000 came to him during the Truman Administration.

As to his suggestion about dropping the draft and stopping the testing of bombs, it can only be ascribed as an unrealistic, even silly, proposal. And such a proposal would have been just as unrealistic and just as silly if suggested by President Eisenhower. The world situation is not ready for either of them. As a matter of fact, Europe was close to war over the Suez Canal crisis at the time that Stevenson thought we could drop the draft and stop testing bombs.

And the Suez Canal crisis cannot be blamed upon Eisenhower. It goes back to the organization of the Arab League with the blessing and financial assistance of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Nasser is a product of the intense Arab nationalism which the Arab League stimulated in all Moslem countries.

In human history, the rivalry between Christianity and Islam is not new. Charles Martel stopped the Moors at Tours in 732; Hunyadi, the Hungarian, in 1456, stopped the Mohammedans at Belgrade; John Sobieski, the Pole, stopped them at Vienna in 1683.

What would have been the history of our civilization if Islam had conquered Europe is, of course, speculative, but this much is not speculative: the year 1956, when the United States faces the overt and unmitigated antagonism of Soviet Russia and the re-emerging and rising hatred of the Arabs for all Christian peoples (and that includes the citizens of Israel) is no time even to suggest dropping the draft and stopping the tests of bombs.

Why do we need to test bombs? There are at least two reasons:

1. Without tests, nobody can possibly say what a bomb can do. Each test is a frightful danger to the entire human race because of the fall-out of radioactive strontium, and sooner or later, the Russians will recognize that they must come to some agreement for universal inspection and control so that the bomb can be eliminated. It is impossible for one country to stop testing, which means developing fiercer bombs, while another country continues. Only Soviet Russia has stood in the way of the total removal of the bomb as an instrument of war.

2. Testing is a form of advertising. Atomic intelligence has been developed to a point where it is possible not only to spot the exact place where the bomb was tested, but the nature of the bomb, the material used and the ferocity of the explosion.

Therefore, each test tells the other nation that the odds are 1000 to 1, or 10 to 1. If those odds ever become 1 to 1, we shall be in very great peril, indeed.

At the present time, Khrushchev is having the kind of internal trouble that often has caused a politician to bring on a war to make his own situation more secure. But Khrushchev knows that even if he acted first, the retaliation would be so overwhelming that nothing would be left for him.

Surely, Adlai Stevenson has no desire for this country to risk so much that it is destroyed by its own weaknesses. Campaign oratory may be amusing but it needs to be serious, too.

Educator says teachers should give more attention to unusually gifted children. According to the viewpoint of their mothers, that would include all of them.

CHAPTER 35
MCKINSTRY stared, startled and momentarily speechless, as Blake's voice rapped at them from the doorway of Kinney's storehouse. Then, as Stockett moved to carry out his orders, the captain found his voice.

"I've heard of returnin' good for evil, Major," he drawled. "But seems like you've kind of got the whole deal in reverse."

"What do you mean?" Blake snapped. "I find you with a man whom you helped to escape in open defiance of my orders, the two of you unlawfully breaking and entering—"

"I'm in hearty agreement with you all the way, Major, as to the facts," McKinstry interrupted. "But have a look at what we've found! All the ammunition and supplies that you've been worrying about for weeks, and which was said never to have arrived! All stacked here as neat as you please, and, judgment by the cobs, we've been here for quite a spell. Have a look for yourself!"

Major Blake stared. Then, with a sudden exclamation, he entered and had his look. McKinstry, showing him about with an exaggerated politeness.

"It was Mr. Eklund's idea," McKinstry added. "And this is a case where events clamor above words."

Harlow Blake's key came did not desert him, though it was plain that he was thinking hard. Few men enjoy being told, however indirectly, that they have been duped. With the troopers as witnesses, the story would be common property for everyone under his command before the next day was out.

"You appear to have made a valuable discovery, however unorthodox your procedure," he granted. "Which does not in any way mitigate the seriousness of your offense. You will both be held for court-martial—"

They had moved back outside the warehouse, and now there came a second unlooked-for interruption. This one appeared equally surprising to the major.

"Harlow Blake, are you a man or a machine?" Helen demanded, and came quickly down off her horse. "I just heard what Bill and Ed found for you, and that's the thanks you give them! You ought to be ashamed of yourself! I'm ashamed of you!"

"Helen!" Asperity crackled in Blake's voice. "What are you doing here—at this hour? I told you to go to bed."

"For one thing, I'm here to tell you that the man you're trying to arrest is the man who is going to be your brother-in-law," Helen retorted promptly. "Bill practically proposed to me this evening, and with him having come to his senses at last, do you think I'm going to have him locked up now?"

Eklund, observing the startled look on Blake's face, hid a grin. Events were coming fast, and the major's calm was buckling under the assaults. But there was still another for him to weather. A voice lifted in song from somewhere close at hand, a mildly bawdy song known to the horse cavalry, sung considerably off-key but making up in volume what it lacked in harmony. Then Script Nymman lurched into sight, clutching one of the bottles of whiskey Kinney had given him. It had been a long while since he'd gone on a drunk, and he was making this a good one.

"Shut that fool up!" Blake exclaimed furiously. "There's enough to distract a man without having to listen to an inebriated sot!"

"Intoxicated sot, is it?" Nymman had overheard, and now, with a truculence which he would never have dreamed of when sober, he pushed forward, impatiently shaking off a trooper who sought to detain him. Planting himself square-footed, he stared owlishly at Blake.

"Sure I'm drunk, if that's what you mean," he went on, giving no time for an answer. "But why'm I drunk? I'll tell you. Because Dolf Kinney wanted me drunk. And why'd Dolf Kinney want me drunk? So's I'd forget that letter 'bout the doctor for you, Major! Thash why!"

It didn't take long to get the story. Blake questioned him sharply, listening with rising anger as the details unfolded. But he could be magnificent on occasion, and he demonstrated it now in making amends.

"My apologies, gentlemen," he said. "To you, too, Mr. Nymman, for my remark, which I see was ill-timed. And to you, Helen. It seems that I've been hoodwinked properly. I'm sorry for what has occurred, Mr. Eklund, and I only hope that you'll forget it. You seem to have grasped what was going on far better than I. So before taking any further action, in regard to the Indians, I would appreciate any suggestions that you may have to give."

"In regard to these stores of ammunition, sir, it seemed likely that you would be interested."

"I'm sure you will be," he said gravely. "We won't be far behind, I promise you, and we will await your signal—for whatever it may be!"

New Water Program Checks Tooth Decay

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IT has been shown that fluoridation of a community's water supply will help prevent dental disease among children.

Despite the criticism of fluoridation—and there has been some opposition to it—it is a sound dental health measure. Numerous studies have already proved this.

Result of Survey
These surveys disclosed that teeth treated with sodium fluoride showed about 40 per cent less decay than teeth which had not been treated.

The presence in drinking water of one part fluoride to 1,000,000 parts water has reduced the incidence of dental decay up to 65 per cent in cases where youngsters drank fluoridated water from birth until the age of eight.

Chicago recently embarked upon a fluoridation program. More than 1,100 other communities across the country where water supplies are deficient in fluoride also have fluoridation programs.

Chief Argument

The chief argument of those opposing fluoridation is that fluorides are poisons. And so they are—in large quantities. But the approved method of fluoridating city water supplies won't harm either children or adults. It will help combat dental caries.

You can compare the trace of fluoride in your water supply to the trace of iodine in iodized table salt.

Iodine, too, is poisonous if consumed in large amounts. Yet iodized salt has been used for some 32 years and has helped greatly to eliminate virtually all goiter trouble in the United States. Table salt itself is poisonous in large quantities. Remember the countless persons adrift at sea who have died from drinking salt water.

The safety of the fluoridation program is demonstrated again by two recent studies of the United States Public Health Service. One study showed the death rates in 32 fluoride cities and 32 neighboring non-fluoride cities were virtually the same.

No Harmful Effects
In the other, complete medical examinations of the eyes, ears, liver, kidneys, bones, thyroid, heart and other organs showed no harmful bodily effects due to drinking water containing even eight parts per million of fluoride.

An estimated 25,000,000 persons in the United States are now drinking fluoridated water each day. In all, about one of every four residents of America's urban areas uses water containing a suitable amount of this element.

The nation's dental future looks pretty bright indeed.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
G. C.: My daughter's palms sweat excessively. It seems no other part of her body does so to such an extent. What causes this and is there anything that can be done about it?

Answer: The reason for localized sweating is not always clear. It often occurs in otherwise normal individuals. It may follow emotional stress.

The use of a weak solution of ammonium chloride on the palms is sometimes of help.

Try, Stop Me

There's a professor, reports the DAC News, who sports a flowing red beard and an even redder jalopy. One day its motor acted up, and the prof drove hastily to a service station. He lowered a window, exposed his whiskers, and said to an attendant: "Listen, and you'll hear the darndest noise!"

Lutheran Church made plans to observe the church's centennial with an all day celebration.

At this point he sneezed so hard the jalopy shook.

The attendant raised a wrench to defend himself. The prof, realizing he couldn't explain adequately, cranked up his window and toothed motor, whiskers, noisy motor, et al.

That reminds me of an old lime-rick:

A buglar named Dougal McDugal found a striking new way to be frugal.

He learned how to sneeze in various keys. Thus saving the price of a bugle.

Outdoor Activities Should Be Enjoyed In Fall Months

Just because Summer is over do not head for indoors and hibernate until Spring. What could be sillier!

The weather is still wonderful for outdoor activities. There is nothing like them for giving cheeks a healthy glow, adding to that feeling of well-being. If you go in for sports, so much the better. They will keep you in trim.

Like bicycle riding? It is a delightful sport but most of you, after the teens, do not do much of it. You really should. It is marvelous for the figure, helps firm hips, shape up legs. Better yet, the process is painless because biking is fun.

How about walking? In this middle age, cars take you every place. And what you are missing! On foot, you have a chance to study the scenery, really see things. Every neighborhood has a

Here are some interesting sandwich spreads and a healthful casserole that will touch the spot during crisp fall days. The casserole is made with fresh snap beans and mushrooms.

To serve six, combine two cups cooked, fresh snap beans with 2 cups diced fresh tomatoes and set aside.

Fry four slices bacon until crisp. Remove from pan. Pour off all but two tablespoons fat and add one cup sliced fresh mushrooms, 1/4 cup diced onion and teaspoon lemon juice. Saute until onions are limp.

Add to bean and tomato mixture, stirring in 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon black pepper and the crumbled bacon.

Turn into a greased six-cup casserole. Mix one cup soft bread crumbs with the two tablespoons bacon fat and sprinkle over top.

Bake at 375 degrees F. 30 minutes or until crumbs are brown.

Here is a new treatment of an old favorite sandwich spread, tuna-fish.

To make approximately 1 1/4 cup filling, combine a (6-oz.) can flaked tuna-fish, 1-3 cup finely chopped celery, 1/4 cup finely chopped green pepper, 1 1/2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, salt to taste, teaspoon curry powder, 1/4 teaspoon black pepper, dash cayenne and 1/4 cup mayonnaise. Mix thoroughly. Store any mixture left over in refrigerator in a covered jar.

An unusual vegetable dish is made with tomatoes and okra.

Scald and skin one pound tomatoes. Cut in thin slices. Add a finely minced onion, teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon thyme and two tablespoons butter. Bring to boil gently.

Wash 1/2 pound okra. Slice directly into the boiling tomatoes, then turn heat low and cook until okra is tender. Serves four.

There is a trick to cooking okra properly. Always drop the cut okra at once into a hot mixture in order to seal the cut surfaces and prevent "bleeding."

few pleasant walks. You just have to find them. Trotting along at a brisk pace is wonderful exercise. It, too, helps the figure.

Make it a point to take one walk a day. Do not drive to the store, walk there. Or maybe you can get your walk in on the way to work. For a short distance, why take a bus?

In another few months, a new set of outdoor activities will be available — skiing and skating. Both are delightful pastimes and we recommend them highly for gals who want to get in the social swing.

WHEN the dinner plates have been cleared away and the time for the last course arrives, everyone thinks of coffee. Coffee-in-the-cup is the accompaniment to the dessert of the evening, no matter what that dessert may be. But when you happen to serve New Orleans Coffee Pie with after-dinner coffee, you've found a combination that is truly delectable.

New Orleans is a city with many claims to fame and one of them is its devotion to its own black-as-your-hat coffee. Orleanians are also famous for their superb food. Here is a recipe for a coffee pie that is typical of the luscious confections so frequently served in the Crescent City.

New Orleans Coffee Pie is easy to make — it requires no cooking at all except for a brief baking of the spicy crumb crust. We suggest making the crust early in the day and preparing the fluffy filling later when you have a spare moment or two. Chill the pie in the refrigerator and just before serving, bedeck it with a crown of snowy whipped cream. Then fill up the coffee cups and let nature take its course!

New Orleans Coffee Pie

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold double-strength coffee
1/4 cups, separated
1/2 cup sugar, divided
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons rum flavoring
1 cup hot, double-strength coffee
1 (8-inch) crumb crust
1 cup whipping cream

Soften gelatin in cold coffee. Beat egg yolks until light; then beat in half-cup sugar, salt and rum flavoring. Add softened gelatin and hot coffee. Stir until gelatin dissolves and chill until syrupy. Beat egg whites until they form soft peaks and add remaining quarter-cup sugar gradually, continuing to beat. Fold into coffee gelatin mixture. Spoon into cinnamon crumb crust and chill until firm. Whip cream and spread on pie.

Cinnamon Crumb Crust
1 1/4 cups graham cracker crumbs
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup cinnamon
1/2 cup melted butter or margarine

Combine all ingredients. Mix well and press firmly on bottom and sides of 8-inch pie pan. Bake in moderate oven, 350° F., 10 minutes. Cool before filling.

New Baked Goods Class Added In Pumpkin Show

A new feature of the baked goods department for the Pumpkin Show celebration will be the Lollipop Corner, to create baking interest among youngsters from 6 to 12 years of age.

The annual show will be in charge of Mrs. Willson Leist, director, Mrs. Maggie Morris, Mrs. Dore Patrick, Mrs. Robert Wills, Mrs. Francis Cupp, Mrs. Francis McGinnis, Mrs. Ned Dresbach and Mrs. Gladden Troutman.

The department would like to see more county homemakers enter in the competition, especially the homemade candies class. The candy is donated to the Children's Home each year following the show.

Last year the home received 59 pounds of candy, which is always greatly appreciated by the kiddies. If sharper competition is shown

Reading By Mrs. Tolbert Highlights DUV Meeting

Highlight of the Friday evening meeting of the Past Presidents of Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War was an original article read by Mrs. E. L. Tolbert.

Mrs. H. G. Bausum entertained the members in her home near Ashville.

Mrs. Tolbert, president, conducted the business session. The group gave the pledge of allegiance after which Mrs. Tolbert read a portion of the 19th Psalm. Members then held a discussion.

"Autumn Gems" was the theme of the program, which was opened by Mrs. W. E. Pickens reading a favorite prayer of a well known army chaplain. She also read "Autumn Fashions."

Mrs. C. O. Kerns read "October," Mrs. James Trimmer, "Call of the Woods."

"The Grate Fire" was given by Mrs. Frank Webb and Miss Daisy Murray presented "Enchanted Autumn Days." Mrs. Bausum offered the reading, "Death of the Flowers."

Mrs. Tolbert then presented the article, she had written, "Autumn Gems." Following is a synopsis of the article:

"Numerous and various gems all rolled into one large beautiful one is called America. The Diamond was in the rough when Christopher Columbus discovered it, but it had been rolled, cut and polished until we have our most valuable and cherished gem, America the Beautiful."

She concluded the reading by having the members join in the singing of one verse of "America the Beautiful."

Mrs. Pickens closed the program by reading "Where Is Columbus." Arrangements of chrysanthemums and roses were used as decorations in the Bausum home, when the hostess assisted by her son, Wayne, served a salad course.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Frank Rader of E. Mound St. November 9.

Stengel Eyes Ways To Brace His Yankees

New 2-Year Contract Given Casey; He Says Left Field Is Weak

NEW YORK (AP) — Now that his own status has been resolved — he's going to be back at the helm for two more years — manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees today turned to ways and means of keeping the World Championship banner flying over Yankee Stadium.

"Right now," he rasped, "our weak spot is left field. If we made a trade, it will be for another outfielder. I'm set with Hank Bauer in right and Mickey Mantle in center."

About 40-year-old Enos Slaughter, Stengel said he doesn't plan to go along with him for another year, adding that he is reserving the right to change his mind.

"After all," he said, "we bought him in the first place for insurance and pinch hitting."

Stengel signed a new two-year contract Friday, calling for about $75,000 a year.

"A lot of people have been saying I'm getting old and ought to quit, winked the 66-year-old pilot who has won six world championships in eight years with the Bombers. 'But I don't see why I should retire when my health is good. And it's as good right now as it was in the spring.'"

Stengel is independently wealthy and does not have to worry about his baseball income these days. In addition to other holdings, he owns several oil wells that net him a pretty penny.

Stengel revealed that he was going to pay close attention to the no-windup pitching delivery in the spring.

Don Larsen used it in his perfect no-hitter against the Brooklyn Dodgers in the Series and Bob Turley employed it the next day in a 1-0 loss in 10 innings.

"Maybe they've really got something there," he said. "But whether they can stay with it, I don't know. It could be that after the batters get used to it, they'll have to shift back to the windup."

"Also it's my guess that only a strong-armed pitcher can use it. However, it's worth looking into and trying. And judging by the success of Larsen had with it, there are going to be an awful lot of pitchers trying it."

Calhoun Chalks Up TKO Over Sullivan

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rory Calhoun gives hard body punches the credit for setting up his technical knockout over Britain's John L. Sullivan here Friday night.

The 22-year-old White Plains, N. Y., slugger, currently No. 6 among the middleweight contenders, had Sullivan a dazed and helpless target when referee, Jackie Davis halted the fight nine seconds into the eighth round.

It was a straight right to the jaw that floored Sullivan for a three-count which the bell interrupted at the end of the seventh, and it was a trio of rights to the jaw that preceded the stopping of the scheduled 10-round.

DeMarco, Gavilan Awaiting Match

BOSTON (AP) — A title match was the goal of former welterweight champions Tony DeMarco and Kid Gavilan as they prepared for their scheduled 10 round fight tonight at Boston Garden.

Gavilan, the Cuba Keed, picked up tremendously in his last few days of gym workouts.

In fact, Gavilan became so impressive the odds on DeMarco dropped from 3-1 to 10-7 and some observers felt it would be down to 6-5 by fight time.

DeMarco seeks the crown he won from Johnny Saxton and lost to Carmen Basilio 60 days later in 1955.

Lions, Cardinals To Seek Third Victories On Pro Grid

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Detroit Lions and Chicago Cardinals go hunting for their third straight victories Sunday, and both teams are counting on their quarterbacks to keep them atop the National Football League standings.

The Cards and Lions so far are proving that anything can happen in pro football. Each finished way down in the standings in 1955, and neither was figured for much improvement this year.

But in the first two games they showed that a quarterback who is hot can fire up a whole team. Bobby Layne passed for 236 yards in Detroit's 31-14 victory over Baltimore and Hopalong Cassidy, the heralded freshman from Ohio State, accounted for 92 yards as he added considerable punch to the Detroit attack.

For the Cards, Lamar McHan completed five of seven passes for 136 yards and two touchdowns as he led a fired-up team to a 35-27 victory over the New York Giants.

In their third game the Lions take on the Los Angeles Rams, last year's western conference champions, and the Cardinals encounter the injury-riddled Washington Redskins, who have lost two games already. Detroit is a solid favorite. The Chicago-Washington game is rated as a toss-up, partly because the Redskins have the home-field edge.

Don Larsen Getting Glimpse Of Hollywood's Odd World

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Don Larsen, the no-hit perfect game pitcher of the World Series, emerged from one dream world into an artificial one called Hollywood today.

The huge New York Yankee righthander, who looks even bigger than his 6 feet 4, is here to appear with Bob Hope on a television show Oct. 21. Reputedly he will get $7,500 for the stint.

How does he feel about it all? "There's been so much going on," said Larsen, "I haven't even had time for a beer in peace."

Larsen got in from New York Friday night and was properly introduced to Hollywood at the airport by a pair of embryo starlets garbed in not much.

He was rushed to a National Broadcasting Co. studio across town and presented to Hope, and a blonde garbed in a tight pair of shocking pink Capri pants and slouchy denim jacket.

Later the blonde changed to a black, scanty evening gown and

Don inquired, "What was the girl's name?"

The blonde's name was Diana Dors, a specialty from England and a co-star on Hope's program.

The Hope writers took Don aside into a little room to outline his dialogue for the show. "It's easy. Just 'feel' the words," said one.

Don read them. A veteran of comic books second only to Yogi Berra of the Yankees, Don read them well enough, even if he didn't perhaps "feel" them at the moment.

"This is kinda new to me," he admitted.

Visitors departed. Said one, "Twelve o'clock curfew, Don."

The good-looking big fellow responded, "Oh sure."

Casey Stengel, himself an actor, would have loved the line.

Bowlers Braced To Test Champs

NEW YORK (AP) — Bowlers across the country will find out Sunday night whether they have earned prizes in the "I beat the Champ"

Football Character Building Debated

CINCINNATI (AP) — The president of Xavier University said Friday he thinks that football should be dropped if character building is not a part of the sport.

The Rev. Paul L. O'Connor told a football rally luncheon, "If we're not building characters, then we'd better close up shop in the library and the football field."

Xavier Football Coach Mick Connolly told a meeting two weeks ago, "I don't go for this 'character building' business. A boy has character when he enters college or he wouldn't be there. I want to win."

challenge tournament for the benefit of the Red Cross.

Bill Lillard and Anita Cantaline, All-Star champion kickers, will receive "I Beat the Champ" medals. Female bowlers, who with handicaps, beat Miss Cantaline will receive "I Beat the Champ" bracelets. The top 600 scorers also will win an opportunity to compete in a headpin handicap rolloff for ten trips for two to Mexico.

The entry fee of 50 cents for each bowler will be turned over to the Red Cross, which hopes to collect about $2 million.

Careless Smoking Causes Many Fatal Fires In Home

Stove, Heater Explosions Also High On List

Fires Rated Second Only To Falls In Home Accident Study

What are the most common reasons why people burn to death in their homes?

This is an important question, considering the fact that fire is second only to falls as a cause of the 27,500 deaths (to say nothing of the more than 4 million non-fatal injuries) that occurred in home accidents in 1955.

A leading life insurance company made a study of deaths from accidents in and about the home among its industrial policyholders, aged 1-74. Here is what they found about home fire deaths:

13 percent, Smoking:

10 percent, in bed, or in a sofa or chair—usually falling asleep.
2 percent, Burning cigarette left on furniture.

1 percent, Clothing set afire by a dropped cigarette or sparks from a pipe.

13 percent, Clothing ignited while working at stove, warming self or walking near an open fire.

11 percent, Explosion of cooking, water- or space-heating equipment:

5 percent, Oil fired (except kerosene).
1 percent, Kerosene fired.
3 percent, Gas fired.
2 percent, Coal, wood and not specified.

4 percent, Sealing: upsetting or falling into hot fluids.

3 percent, Explosion of gasoline or other flammable liquids used for cleaning.

3 percent, Kindling a fire with kerosene or gasoline.

2 percent, Fire caused by faulty electrical wiring.

2 percent, Children playing with matches.

1 percent, Discarding or dropping a lighted match.

1 percent, Burning brush or trash.

1 percent, Falling against a hot plate or radiator.

1 percent, Explosion of upset oil lamp.

1 percent, Explosion of leaking gas line or pipe.

33 percent, In home fires of undetermined or unstated origin.

11 percent, Other (specified and unspecified).

100 percent, Total.

Lausche Policies Claimed 'Shameful'

CLEVELAND (AP) — U. S. Sen. Bender (R-Ohio) claims the economy of Gov. Frank J. Lausche's administration is "shameful."

"I don't believe," Bender said, "in building up a surplus in the state treasury, as my opponent boasts of doing, when it is accomplished by putting mentally ill men, women and children behind the bars of county jails rather than to spend the money for new mental hospitals."

Bender said this five-term governor's money policies are "shameful" and "false."

Church School Chieftains Scheduled For Ohio Parley

COLUMBUS—Church school superintendents from throughout Ohio will attend the Ohio Church School Superintendents Conference at the Youth Center at the Ohio State Fairgrounds Oct. 26 to 28.

Sponsored by the Department of Christian Education of the Ohio Council of Churches, the conference will be the first of its kind in this state. Each church is asked to send its superintendent for training in methods of recruiting and training church school teachers, new methods in religious education, and to share ideas and plans with other church workers.

Leaders will include Dr. Earl Cunningham of the Board of Christian Education of the Methodist Church; Dr. Lee Gable, professor of Christian education at the Evangelical and Reformed Seminary in Pennsylvania; and Dr. Virgil Foster, editor of the International Journal of Religious Education.

In addition to general sessions, there will be three discussion periods in which the superintendents will share ideas, plans and problems, and gain new ideas for doing a better job in their church schools.

Registration will begin on Oct. 26. The conference will open with a banquet that day at 6:15 p. m. Dr. Cunningham will give the address. Discussion sessions will follow. Further discussion will be held the next morning. Denominational meetings will be held at 4 p. m. Following dinner, Dr. Foster will give an address on "Open More than One Window" and will give a demonstration of effective teaching methods.

Visits to Columbus churches to "see how the other fellow does it" will be held Sunday morning.

Dr. Harry R. Roach, executive of the Synod of Ohio of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., is general conference chairman. Other Ohio denominational Christian education leaders who will be resource persons are: Miss Georgia Sprinkle of the Northeast Ohio Methodist Conference; the Rev. Stanley Plattenberg of the Episcopal Diocese of Southern Ohio; Dr. Sidney Mayer, of the Ohio Methodist Conference; the Rev. Harry Smith of the Disciples of Christ; Miss Louise Triplett of the Congregational Christian Churches; and the Rev. Melvin Moody, of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, chairman of the Ohio Council's Department of Christian Education.

Sen. Jenner Says Ike Rap Is 'Accurate'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Jenner of Indiana says President Eisenhower was "accurate" in telling a news conference Thursday that Jenner and GOP Senators McCarthy (Wis) and Malone (Nev) do not agree with him in many things. The President added, "I can't look to them for help" in trying to put over a legislative program "for the good of the country."

Eisenhower's comment was based on a magazine article by Paul Hoffman, former foreign aid administrator, who wrote that the three "have no place in the new Republican party."

Jenner said that he and the two other senators "are Republicans who do not go along with him (Eisenhower) on some things," and added:

"I support the President when I think he is right and I don't when I think he is wrong."

In Reno, Nev., Malone said he disagrees with Eisenhower on what he called "bills for Europe" and "free trade," and will continue to oppose both tariff reductions and foreign aid.

But he said Eisenhower is "only continuing" what he said the Democrats started.

In Appleton, Wis., McCarthy declined comment.

Army Pfc. Robert A. B. Lutz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Denver Lutz of Ashville Route 1, took part in a four-week field training exercise with the 3rd Armored Division in Germany.

Lutz, a clerk in Company B of the division's 29th Infantry Battalion, entered the Army in August 1955 and completed basic training at Fort Knox, Ky.

The 24-year-old soldier was graduated from Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky. in 1954. He was employed as teacher at Ashville-Harrison High School before entering the Army.

Overworked Medic Chided By Judge

CLEVELAND (AP) — A former railroad physician is loser in a $75,000 injury suit in which he claimed the railroad worked him too hard.

Federal Judge Charles J. McNamee ordered a jury to rule against the doctor and described the case as having the least merit of any he had heard in 18 years.

The judge also suggested that the law firm representing the doctor owed the court an apology for ever beginning the action. Dr. Norbert Kassern, 57, of suburban Lakewood, filed the suit against the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Florida Seen As Wavering Between Ike And Stevenson

Editor's Note: Here is another in a series of articles by veteran Associated Press political reporters who are surveying sentiment in key states across the country.

By HENDRIX CHANDLER

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The Presidential race in Florida appears so close that a strong political wind the week before election could blow it either way.

More voters than usual seem to be on the fence at this late date. But the real enigma in the picture is the big mass of some 200,000 new voters registered since 1952.

They are part of the big influx of newcomers, many of them from the Midwest and East, who are helping to make Florida one of the nation's fastest growing states. Others are natives who have just reached voting age.

Harold Ballew, managing editor of the St. Petersburg Independent in Republican - conscious Pinellas County, sees in the newcomers a largely Republican group he predicts will help keep Florida in the Eisenhower column.

But over in Putnam County, a normally Democratic county in northeast Florida which went for President Eisenhower by a slim

$1,355,650 Asked For Downed Plane

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has demanded payment by Russia of $1,355,650 as damages for the destruction of a Navy patrol plane, in September, 1954, the killing of an American airman, and injuries to survivors.

A note presented to the foreign office in Moscow by the U. S. Embassy asserted full Soviet responsibility for the destruction of the twin-engine Navy Neptune "over the international waters of the sea of Japan."

The U. S. plane was shot down by two Soviet fighters.

Dentist, Executive Given Citations

COLUMBUS (AP) — An Ironton dentist and retired utilities executive from Alliance have been cited as "outstanding public library trustees of the year" by the Ohio Library Trustees Assn.

Accepting citations for meritorious service on behalf of patrons on the library profession were Dr. George Wileman, president of the board of the Briggs - Lawrence County Public Library at Ironton, and Clyde C. Henderson of Alliance, who is retiring after two years as president of the state library association.

Judge Displays High Optimism

YOUNGSTOWN (AP) — A municipal judge here running for Mahoning County prosecutor has reached new heights in optimism.

Judge Frank R. Franko, an independent, is sending letters to every traffic violator who has appeared before him (there have been about 8,000 since he took office in 1954) asking them to vote for him. He feels they will have confidence in him because he was lenient with fines.

Weekday Religious Classes Seen On Increase In Ohio

COLUMBUS — Inauguration of weekday religious education in a number of Ohio communities and expansion of past programs is expected to result in a considerable increase in enrollment of weekday students in this state in the 1956-57 term. Last year more than 85,000 pupils were enrolled.

Nationally weekday religious education enrollment is expected to reach a record level, according to Dr. Erwin L. Shaver, director of weekday for the National Council of Churches. More than three million children attended weekday classes in 46 states in the 1955-56 term, he said.

More than 100 Ohio communities held weekday programs last year. Demand for classes is greater than the supply of teachers. Great impetus was given to the program by the first National Conference on Weekday Religious Education at Oberlin last June. Four regional followup conferences were held in various parts of the state to strengthen local weekday programs. These were held at Tiffin, Marion, London and at Barnesville. A fifth "little Oberlin" session will be held later in Western Ohio.

Several new teachers have been employed by Ohio weekday systems for the 1956-57 term. They come from a number of different states, colleges and denominations. Three graduates of Schaeffer School of Religious Education at Oberlin have entered weekday teaching. Miss Janice Huyler will teach in Cincinnati, Miss Edith Willis in Dayton, and Miss Ruth Greely in Springfield.

Two Wittenberg College graduates have also dedicated their careers to weekday. Miss Donna Metzger will teach in Shelby and Miss Naomi Reher in New Philadelphia. Also teaching in New Philadelphia will be Miss Anna Lou Rockey, recent graduate of Findlay College.

In Washington County two new teachers have been engaged. They are Mrs. Eva Knight, who holds a master's degree from Hartford School of Religious Education, and Miss Jean McLure of Marietta. Another Hartford graduate, Mrs. Harry Yoder, will teach in Bluffton.

Joining the Dayton staff also will be Miss Joan Hannon, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and a former director of religious education in Indianapolis; Mrs. Delores Michel, a graduate of the Baptist Missionary Training School, Chicago; and Miss Diana Lora, a graduate of Bluffton College.

Among the new parttime teachers will be Mrs. Vernon Walrath at Crestline, and Mrs. H. C. Jett at Vaughnsville.

Japanese Protest U.S. Expansion

SUNAKAWA, Japan (AP) — One thousand unarmed Japanese policemen, trying to clear the way for expansion of a U. S. air base, crashed into a human wall here and made little progress.

The giant tugging, pushing and shoving match with an estimated 2,000 villagers, Socialists, labor unionists and university students lasted an hour Friday.

Several students and eight policemen were injured slightly. Japanese survey teams, who want to survey the final two acres needed to permit expansion of the adjoining Tachikawa Air Base, made no progress.
